Bicycles, Pedestrians to Share Sidewalk on New Broadway Overpass Structure

Burlingame – The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) announced today that bicyclists and pedestrians will temporarily share a sidewalk on the new U.S. Route 101/Broadway interchange structure, starting Monday, July 17.

The Pedestrian Overcrossing structure will close on Monday in order to re-construct the east side. The overcrossing is scheduled to re-open at the beginning of August 2017.

The sidewalk is part of a new overpass structure that is part of a reconstruction project for the entire U.S. route 101/Broadway interchange. The new structure is being built just north of the old interchange. The new overpass will have seven lanes, as opposed to the old structure's four lanes. The ramps will also be reconfigured, and the portion of Broadway that runs beneath will be realigned and straightened.
